Current Position

Associate Professor in the Faculty of Engineering in Bar-Ilan University, Israel.

Research Interests

I am interested in the field of Cryptography, with a focus on secure protocols and their efficiency. This research concentrates on the problem of constructing secure protocols that are both highly efficient and have rigorous proofs of security. In my research I consider different adversarial models and definitions of security, with the aim of obtaining high efficiency and security. My focus is on both theoretical and practical efficiency as well as understanding the bottlenecks in the design of secure protocols.
